I'll be there!

Tomorrow at 10 am I will meet a person there concerning the location of any underground utilities.

Monday morning, I hope to get David Witherspoon to show me the approximate location of an underground oil tank that he remembers.

Subject: Smokey aerials

Yesterday I saw 1960 and 1979 aerial photos of Smokey at Continental Aerial Surveys, Inc., a local company in Alcoa, TN.

The 1960 shots (two at slightly different angles) clearly show a drainway (stream?) from a large pond. Maybe there's a smaller pond next to the large one. I didn't spend a lot of time with it. It was taken from 6000 ft., I believe. An enlargement will be interesting.

The 1979 shots show one very large pond where the two small ones were on the topo that we have. This is the year that Smokey started operations.

These photos make it look like there may have been significant waste at the Site before Smokey began dumping.

I didn't see the 1966 photo(s) that Continental thinks they have.
